

What does Free Geek accept?

Free Geek accepts nearly everything that plugs in or uses electricity, including computers, smartphones, tablets, printers, TVs, Audio/video systems, related accessories, and much more. We are also a proud participant of the Oregon E-Cycles program, which guarantees convenient recycling of computers, monitors, TVs, printers, keyboards, and mice.

While we do take most electronics, there are some things we don't accept.

- Plastic media such as floppy disks, VHS tapes, zip disks, rewritable CD/DVDs
- Styrofoam
- Fluorescent light bulbs
- Non-rechargeable or leaking batteries (we do accept most rechargeable)
- Larger Li-ion batteries, such as those from e-bikes, or mobility devices
- Copiers lacking the ability to print from a computer or network
- Compressed air items such as CO2 cartridges, aerosol cans, etc.
- Liquids such as cleaners, solvents, inkjet refill kits, etc.
- Moldy, sticky or smelly items (volunteers will be handling your donation)
- Household appliances, including:
 - Dehumidifiers
 - Air conditioners
 - Smoke detectors
 - Microwave ovens
- Biohazards / medical equipment
 - Items infested with insects or vermin droppings
 - Blood testing supplies or equipment
 - Items potentially contaminated with saliva and other bodily fluids (toothbrush heads etc.)
- Furniture, including:
 - Wooden pianos and organs
 - Smartboards and whiteboards
 - TV stands
 - Desks
